12 weeks ends the 1st trimester and the baby is about 3 ½ inches long, weighing 60 grams. By this time he/she has begun to move about frequently, although this movement is usually not detectable by the mother. The heartbeat can now be heard with Doppler; cartilage has become bone, sex organs are developing, and fingernails are growing. His/her eyes are now sealed and will not reopen until about 28 weeks. Babies have been seen at this stage sucking their thumbs, squinting and grasping the umbilical cord.
